Presenting

Through an Artists Eyes

Drawing & Painting with Irena Polanski

Age 5 to 10

Children love to draw. They do it so freely and with great joy. As they grow, children want to achieve a certain level of realism in their work. To do this, they must learn to “see” with an artist’s eye.

Under guidance and individual attention from the professional artists and experienced teacher, students are introduced to the drawing and painting techniques using watercolors and oil pastels. Through a variety of creative and challenging assignments, students work to develop observational skills, as well as eye and hand coordination. Still-life objects are used to understand the concepts of proportion, shape, composition, light, shadow, and color. Teaching is based on a classical and structural approach to fine art.

During each class, special attention is given to each child on a one-on-one basis. Classes are kept small, and space is limited. These are on going classes and will be open to new students continuously through the Fall of 2011.

Tuition is $60 for four weeks and is due at the beginning of each month.

Material fee is $5/month. Payment is accepted in cash/check at first class of each month. Make checks payable to Irena Polanski.
